

Friends of Cathedral Music

Greenwich Old Royal Naval College Chapel
London SE10 9NN

Gathering 17th June 2018

Safeguarding a priceless heritage

Dear Friends

You are invited to a day in Maritime Greenwich to enjoy the splendour of the wonderful Old Royal Naval College Chapel, College and Choir. Built on the edge of the Thames designed by Sir Christopher Wren, and Nicholas Hawksmoor, the old Royal Naval College stands close to the Queens House designed by Inigo Jones, and is a Unesco World heritage site. <https://www.ornc.org/chapel#BHBO1ZZK5lqr3cGT.97>

The Trinity Laban Old Royal Naval College Chapel Choir has provided outstanding sacred music for the Chapel since 2001.

The day will start with an open rehearsal, listening to the choir practice, followed by sung Eucharist, at 11am with tea / coffee afterwards. This will be followed with a talk by the Chaplain The reverend Pat Mann, and Director of Music Ralph Allwood will talk about his life and Church music.

For lunch, you could bring a picnic, and eat it in the park, or there are many eateries and Pubs in Greenwich, or buy some food at Marks and Spencer.

After lunch we shall reconvene again and have a guided tour of the chapel and the Old Royal Naval College, for an hour.

The day will end at approximately 4.15pm.

Tim Layton
07790 321350
greenwich@fcm.org.uk

Transport to Greenwich <https://tfl.gov.uk/>

Train

From Charing Cross, Waterloo East, Cannon Street, London Bridge –15 mins from the station.

Tube North Greenwich on the Jubilee Line, then a bus to Royal Naval College

DLR (Docklands Light Railway) - to the Cutty Sark

THAMES CLIPPER Boat Bus <https://www.thamesclippers.com/>

Bus – many

Car – Parking is metered, unless you are prepared to walk, more than 15 minutes.

<https://en.parkopedia.co.uk/parking/greenwich/?arriving=201804081730&leaving=201804081930>

There is disabled parking, inside the Old Royal Naval college, which can be arranged by me.